Public Bathing House.

THE Proprietors of THE PITTSBURGH STEAM MILL BATHING HOUSE, hereby inform the Public, that the capacity of the water reservoirs for that establishment is doubled, and so arranged that the cold and warm water are perfectly seperated. The public will not in future meet with the disappointments consequent on the former arrangement.

The cost of this establishment, has been considerable, and the Proprietors are sorry to say the proceeds arising from it are not sufficient to warrant the opening of it another season under the present limited patronage. It is however hoped that the new arrangement alluded to, together with a more extended knowledge of the great benefit arising from the use of Baths, in such a place as this, will in a short time, produce a more liberal encouragement.

The price of BATHING is 25 Cents. The House will be open from 5 in the morning till 10 at night.

FROM THE CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Considerations addressed to the honest of all parties.

Absolute despotism produces a stillness, that is like the silence of the grave. Every tongue is fettered. No one dares condemn the measures of the despot in the hearing of even his familiars. The press, if one exists, is altogether employed to eulogize, and in no case permitted to censure the doings of the powers that be. Whensoever opposition is made to such a government, it is made by the dint of the sword. A fearful rebellion breaks out, all of a sudden, and the tyrant is destroyed or dethroned, or the rebels subdued, and thousands of them executed. On the other hand, in free countries, where the liberty of speech and of the press is tolerated, the people canvass the measures of their rulers, and blame with freedom whatsoever they think to be blameworthy: and this, so far from being hostility to the government itself, is the very thing that preserves it. Often the British administration, by strides of arbitrary power, was on the eve of overturning the civil constitution, which was rescued and saved by the orderly but strenuous efforts of the opposition: an opposition possessing a devotional regard to the government itself; and, for that very reason, censuring and reproaching the rulers whose measures threatened its subversion.

In these United States infinite pains have been taken to identify the rulers with the government itself, and to make it be believed that he that reprobates their measures, or any of them, is of course an enemy to our free institutions. This sophistry would seem too gross and palpable to deceive any body, and yet innumerable multitudes have been deceived by it—verily believing that whoso manifests dissatisfaction with the measures of the cabinet, betrays by it evident symptoms of enmity to the constitution.

Now, be it asked, what have the opposition-party done to incur the odium that has been cast upon them? In what manner have they opposed the administration? Have they done it by force of arms? Have they broke out into rebellion or insurrections, as men of another sort did, in former times? No, never. They have peaceably submitted to every constitutional law, however oppressive, vexatious, and ruinous to their interests, and even to some laws that were maifestly unconstitutional. The weapons of their warfare were not made of steel or lead, but of the product of intellectual ore. Upon the floor of Congress, and through the medium of the press, they argued, they reasoned, they remonstrated, and sometimes they inveighed. And pray had they not a good right to do so, touching measures which they preceived to be pernicious to the interests of their country? If this be treasonable, then the Earl of Chatham proved himself to be a traitor, by the bold invectives he uttered, in the British House of Commons, during our revolution war.

Moreover, if we review some of the principal instances in which opposition has been exerted, it will appear that the oppositionists were not far from the mark.

They opposed the election of Mr. Jefferson, and then again of Mr. Madison. And do they deserve hanging for that act? What honest man in this whole country, would have held up his hand for either of those men, had he foreseen the direful effects of their pitiful administration?

They reprobated, in strong terms, the conduct of Mr. Jefferson in audaciously rejecting the arrangement of Monroe and Pinkney. Were they in the wrong? Who can pretend to deny that, if that treaty (a better one than we have got at last) had been accepted, it would have saved many thousands of lives, and hundreds of millions in property?

They laughed to scorn the pitiful scheme of a gun-boat navy. Let the auction-hammers tell, if they committed treason by their scornful jocularity on that occasion.

They pointedly reprobated and strenuously opposed the whole chapter of commercial restrictions, as ruinous to ourselves, and inefficient in regard to the enemy. The event proved them to be in the right,

They strenuously opposed the act of declaring war, in the then unprepared condition of the country. Experience has testified loudly in their favour, and no administration, for the thirty years, we presume to say, will be mad and foolish enough to do the like again.

They reprobated the conduct of Mr. Madison in refusing to listen to the offers of an armistice, after the orders in council had been repealed. If his own heart do not condemn him on that account it is a strange heart.

They condemned the ambitious scheme of subjugating, by fire and sword, the British provinces and annexing them to the United States—After immense expenditures of money and of blood—fruitlessly expended, the projectors themselves were ashamed of their project; and their commissioners at Ghent, out of burning shame, flatly denied that any such project had been on foot.

They firmly opposed the establishment of the monstrous mammoth bank: and had it been established, our currency, even now depreciated and of precarious credit, would have been very little better than blank paper.

Finally, they set their faces and their voices against arbitrary and unconstitutional assumption of power—particularly against placing the militia of the states under the absolute controul of the President—against the conscription law copied from the Napoleon code—and against the enlistment of minors, without the consent of their parents and guardians. And is this a mark of enmity to the government or constitution? Is he the enemy to our free constitution, who contends for its inviolable preservation, and is he its friend, who is willing to bend it or destroy it by piece-meal, as exigencies may happen? What if, with one consent, the states and the whole people had yielded up these points? The war perhaps would have been prosecuted with greater effect; but there would have been created a despotic, all-devouring authority, against which it would be vain to struggle in time to come. Once grant it, that rulers, constitutionally limited, may yet do as they please, at some times and on some occasions; and it will not be long ere they will do as they please, at all times and on all occasions.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 20, 1816.

A brick House in Front Street, between Wood and Smithfield Streets, belonging to the heir of William Cunningham, deceased, and occupied by Mr. Rosenbaum, Piano-Forte maker, was burnt to the foundation on last Saturday morning about 2 o'clock. The fire is said to have been communicated from a grate in the second story. Mr. Rosenbaum has suffered severely, having lost all his tools, &c. A recent fall of snow, and the calmness of the night, prevented further destruction.

A bill has been reported in the Senate of this State, granting a city corporation to Pittsburgh, under the style of "The Mayor, Aldermen and Citizens of Pittsburg." Seventeen persons to be members of the Common Council, and nine persons to be members of the Select Council, are to be elected by the freemen of said city, on the second Tuesday of October annually—the legislative powers of the city shall be exclusively vested in the Select and Common Councils. The Governor to appoint one Recorder and Aldermen, who shall hold their offices during good behaviour, and who shall have all the powers of Justices of the Peace, &c. The Select and Common Councils to choose one of the said Aldermen as Mayor of the city, &c. &c.

In the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania, on the 4th inst. Mr. Marlin offered the following resolution, which was laid on the table, viz:—

Whereas a port of entry is established by the United States at the town of Erie, in the state of Pennsylvania, for the harbour of Presqu'isle, where it may be necessary for the collector of the port to seize and libel vessels sailing and trading to, and from foreign ports and harbours. And whereas, inconveniences of great magnitude are experienced by the inhabitants residing in the western and northern parts of this state, living remote from the city of Philadelphia, by reason of being sued and impleaded in the Circuit Court of the United States, in and for the district of Pennsylvania, and compelling their attendance at a very great distance, which the circumstances of many will not justify. And whereas, it is just and right that the distribution of justice should be brought home to every man and administered without delay, as nearly as the nature and circumstances of the government will admit. Therefore,

Resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the Senators from this State in the Congress of the United States, be instructed, and the Members of the House of Representatives be requested to use their endeavours to procure the passage of a law dividing the state of Pennsylvania into two districts and establishing a circuit court of the United States at Pittsburgh in the county of Allegheny.

Resolved, That the Governor of this Commonwealth direct the Secretary of State to furnish a copy of the foregoing resolution to each of the Senators and Representatives of this State in the Congress of the United States.

A bill has been reported in the House of Representatives of the United States for establishing a National Bank—the capital $ 35,000,000—seven of which are allotted to the government, and twenty-eight to corporations and individuals. The stock to consist of $ 28,000,000 in public securities, and $ 7,000,000 specie. The Bank to be established in Philadelphia, with power to erect branches, or to employ state banks as branches elsewhere,

The discussion in the House of Representatives of the United States on the subject of the Military Academy, has eventuated in the determination to establish one Academy, in addition to the one already established, to be located at Knoxville, in the state of Tennessee, which was considered by the majority of the House, as the most central position to that section of country which comprizes the southern and western states and territories. The bill has been recommitted with a view to the arrangement of its details; but, it is probable, will pass the House nearly in its present shape. The number of Cadets attached to the Corps of Engineers, or Military Academy, is proposed to be increased from two hundred to six hundred.

Mr. Scull,

Governor Tompkins, on behalf of the United States, borrowed from the Corporation of New-York 400,000 dollars, for which he promised them 440,000 in treasury notes. He afterwards said he had the notes, but had not time to endorse them. He now denies ever having had the notes or ever having said he had them. Mr. Dallas and Munro say the notes were never issued to the Governor. Mr. Dallas in his report, which we are bound to believe is free from errors, does not mention this debt to the Corporation of New-York as an outstanding debt due by the government—though he specifies a debt due to the state of New-York, and another to a bank in New-York. Now it is admitted that Governor Tompkins received the money from the City Corporation. Mr. Dallas and Munro say the United States have not paid it. And Mr. Dallas says in substance the United States do not owe it. As some people speak of this Mr. Tompkins for President, we have a right to know something about him, and I therefore take the liberty of asking a few questions. To what use was this money applied? To that of the United States. In that case they would owe the money now, if they had not paid it before. But as two secretaries say it was never paid, and one says it is not due, the inference is plain, the United States never owed it. Then who did?

It is illiberal to suppose that this money subserved any of Mr. Tompkins's private purposes. He is a Governor, a Patriot, and a Candidate for the Presidency.

The Virginians have a great aversion to any thing which will excite local jealousies, and in this particular, their candor and forbearance is highly commendable. Other states complain of the inordinate sateless ambition of Virginia, but she complains of no one—other states complain of her undue influence in the national councils and over public measures, but Virginia retorts on no one—others complain that not satisfied with the President 24 out of 28 years since the adoption of the constitution, she aims at it for the next period. While poor Virginia with dove-like innocence and lamb-like patience bears the reproaches of her sisters, and never retorts upon them. With pure zeal for the general good, she abhors all local or state jealousies; though wholly void of ambition or the wish for power; though duly sensible of the great merits of others; though she wishes to conciliate and has no desire but for the good of the union, it is no fault of hers if none but Virginia councils are fraught with wisdom; none but Virginia statesmen fit for Presidents. She cannot supply the want of talent in other states, and ought not to be blamed if no good thing can come out of Nazareth. A Virginian has no national prejudices; he is as free from them as the honest Hibernian, who found fault with the heat of the American sun, the size of the moon, the splendor of the sky, the noise of the thunder, the fury of the tempest. It was nothing to what they had in Ireland. He had no national prejudices, but give him Ireland for ever.

No. Virginian.

GOVERNOR SNYDER AND HIS FRIENDS THE FRENCH

OUR legislature, as men sensible of the nature and extent of their public duties, and knowing that their powers are confined to the limits of Pennsylvania, might reasonably put or suggest the following questions among themselves.—What have we to do with all this farago of bombast respecting Bonaparte's disasters, the sufferings of the French people, and the measures which the combined sovereigns of Europe thought proper to adopt, which the "acute feelings" of the Governor has prompted him to cram into his message? Does he intend it only as a subject of condolence along with himself, or as highly interesting information? If information alone is his object, he must have a contemptible opinion of our means of knowledge and information. Can he suppose that we were shut up in caves of obscurity and excluded from all correspondence with the world in such eventful times, and come here to him for information? or, does he suppose that we would render ourselves so ridiculous as to notice the convulsions of Europe in our legislative capacity?

Whilst the Governor deplores the sufferings of his friends and paints them in colours of the deepest dye, it is easy to discover a spirit of censure and enmity against those powers who were compelled to inflict the punishments. But he must confess, that the facts he has stated were the true cause of the events which ensued.

He acknowledges, that the man who was "hurled from his throne," was considered as the common enemy of all; that he had been placed thereon by the affection of the people and the devotion of the army; that not an arm or a voice was raised against him, but was welcomed by acclamations of joy by the nation, Here then it appears, that the nation were the prime cause, not only of their own sufferings, but of all Bonaparte's future misfortunes. For had they suffered him to remain in Elba, from whence he was certainly invited, neither him nor themselves would ever have had to mourn their present sufferings.—The Governor and the French nation ought to recollect, that this is the second time he was hurled from the throne of the Bourbons, (which is still a greater proof of his criminality) and that the sovereigns of Europe were compelled, from his perseverance in the works of destructien, and for their own peace and security, to pass a sentence remarkable for humanity and mercy, from the greatest tribunal in the world, upon one of the greatest criminals that ever infested the world.

Now, as the French nation, in defiance and in contempt of the combined powers of Europe, had invited this man from his banishment, and placed him upon the throne, most certainly with the view of enabling themselves to renew their depredations upon the world, but the allies in particular, they certainly merit a much greater degree of punishment than what they have yet experienced. The Governor says, that they are "weeping in sackcloth and ashes, at being driven from their homes houseless and hungry, and the dearest objects of their love violated." If all these were facts, which seems to be only known to the Governor, it is likewise a fact universally known, that they have inflicted upon their neighbours in a tenfold degree, those very calamities of which they complain, besides many others still more atrocious.

As he borrows the phrase of sackcloth and ashes from the sacred page, if he would look into that divine volume, he would find that no nation or people was ever reduced to that degree of penitence, nor none had suffered a total destruction from heaven, but those who were guilty of the greatest crimes that human depravity was capable of committing. As the present condition of France can be no secret in Europe, it is likewise said, that as a nation, they are revelling in all the excesses of pleasure, dissipation, and vices of the blackest hue; and indeed from the character and habits of that nation, that course of life might rather be expected, than weeping and wailing.

The Governor attempts to awaken our feelings by recalling to memory the alliance and friendship of that people during our revolution, and wishes to ascribe to the people solely, that assistance, which was ordered by the monarch alone. If he would recollect the despotic structure of the French government at that time, and the prerogatives of that monarch, he must know that the people had no voice in granting that assistance, more than the people in the Chinese empire. All the measures adopted by Louis upon that occasion, were solely the acts of his own prerogative; and the people knew no more of the destination of that armament, than the beasts of the field. As to his motives upon the occasion, there were different opinions by the politicians of those days. But how can we suppose that he was influenced by friendship or good will for the rebel subjects of another sovereign? As our intercourse at that time was solely confined to the British dominions, Louis and his subjects knew little more about us than the savages of the Missouri, and perhaps regarded us as little. He barely knew us to be British colonists, and probably considered us in the same light as British savages.

If we only look into our own breasts, and consider the predominant passions of human nature, we will easily discover that self-interest, envy, ambition, and revenge, are generally mingled in some degree, more or less, with all the transactions and pursuits of mankind; and we are well assured from history and our own observations, that those passions operate in a much higher degree amongst the sovereign powers of the earth.

The kings of England and France have ever been avowed and inveterate enemies; and the jealousy, envy and vengeance of the kings of France, were always increasing in proportion to the growing power and extended dominions of the British empire. Louis saw the opportunity created by rebellion, and instantly embraced it. Our revolution was progressing; our independence promising, and the capture of Burgoyne's army induced him to an immediate treaty of alliance. That alliance enabled him to gratify his revenge to the extent of his wishes, by curtailing the British crown of such immense dominions.

How absurd it is to suppose, that the intrigues of the French cabinet, and the measures that were adopted for our support, were the acts of the French people.

VIRGINIA BANKS.—The committee of the House of Delegates of Virginia have made a report on the petitions of several associations for banking purposes formed and about to be formed in that state.

The Report winds up with the following propositions; that it is expedient to establish 15 new Banks, viz:—at Abingdon, Charleston in Brooke, Wheeling, Morgantown, Clarkesburg, Parkersburg, Saunton, Winchester, Romney, Martinsburgh, one in Jefferson county, one in Loudon, at Warrenton, West End in Fairfax, and at Dumfries. The said Banks to pay the commonwealth a premium equivalent to what has been paid by the existing Banks; that they shall emit specie; if they cease to do so, without the authority of law, their charters may be revoked by the General Assembly; the public taxes to be continued to be paid in specie, or the notes of the Bank of Virginia or Farmers' Bank; that additional means be provided by law for enforcing the issue of specie by the Banks of Virginia—and that the most effectual means be provided for protecting the privileges of the chartered Banks against the abuses of unauthorised private banking.

EDUCATION.

A GENTLEMAN, who has been employed as a Teacher of an English School for many years past, and whose reputation in that capacity is well established, purposes opening a School in Pittsburgh about the first of April next, provided he meets with such encouragements as would warrant him in relinquishing his present situation.

Persons disposed to encourage the proposed School may learn further particulars by calling on JAMES M. RIDDLE, Esq. in Third Street, who will state the terms, &c. and give references to respectable Citizens of the Borough of Pittsburgh, who are well acquainted with the method and success in teaching, and also the personal character and reputation of the person alluded to. January 16, 1816.

EDUCATION.

MR BOARDMAN, Teacher of the Lancasterian School in Market Street, proposes to teach the ENGLISH GRAMMAR scientifically and with unusual facility, for the most part by way of lecture and interrogation. Not meeting with sufficient encouragement either to employ his time or afford a competency in the institution already established, he purposes in addition, to exert his talents in this highly important branch of Education, the study of which, although it is an admirable exercise for the mature judgment of an adult, still is susceptible of being so simplified as to be comprehended by the juvenile understanding. From Mr. B's experience in teaching this science, he is induced to believe that the parents and friends of those entrusted to his charge will have the gratification of realizing the liviliest expectations of the pupils progress.

When the days lengthen a class of young Ladies or Misses may receive lessons either in Grammar or Geography, and their convenience will be consulted as to the hours of attendance.

ALEXIS AND THIRZA.

Elegiac Eclogue, consecrated to the Memory of MORDECAI YARNALL, late of Philadelphia.

Inscribed to his Sister.

...his lay thine, Rebecca, whom the bard,
...in fair Ohio's range of hills and vales,
...ray of monument of his regard
...fly dear brother's memory, fondly hails.

...he was no common brother. As at first
...hearts were knit in holy fellowship,
...from his breast its ruling passion burst
...and the last word that faltered on his lip!

...I was witness to—nor I alone;
...others wept around their dying friend,
...ke then the tribute which a hand unknown,
...by the side of Yarnall's willow penn'd;
...I'm aught the officious zeal offend
...let the motive for the crime atone.

ALEXIS.

...ther my dear Thirza, dost thou importune
...grief-stricken friend, with a busines so vain?
...know'st I have promisd, and shall I, so soon,
...ept to new string my old lyre again?

...rs that are past, when I courted the muse,
...strove, with poor skill, my own cares to beguile.
...the theme, which I happened to choose,
...ened the air of my friends, with a smile:

...them I was soothed, or was gladdened, I own,
...dst the full force of applause, when express'd:
...now the enthusiasm of youth is all gone,
...cold philosophy rules in my breast.

...the nerve of feeling, 'tis true, is still there,
...every poetical vision is fled—
...therefore for him, whom we mourn, shall the tear
...silence, say all that by us can be said.

THIRZA.

...therefore (I add) shall dull apathy know
...great is her influence, how wide is her sway,
...ding the breast of the bard not to glow,
...Mordecai vainly solicits the lay.

...in mind, dear Alexis, when he was alive,
...of en we ventured our feelings to pen—
...all that I ask of thee is to revive
...se bursts of affection which showed themselves then.

...e full glow of sentiment, tender and strong,
...ich swells our sad bosoms, and spreads like a flame,
...ments of thy skill, might embellish the song,
...oted to speak of his virtues and name.

ALEXIS.

...d yet, my dear Thirza, what would it avail
...deck with his virtues the friendly wrought lay?—
...all but ourselves it would sound like a tale,
...ll be little more than mere words thrown away.

...me, I will own, that I greatly prefer,
...tear of true sorrow, in secrecy shed,
...all the fine eulogies, pomp, and loud stir
...pride ever heaped round the shrine of the dead.

THIRZA.

...e tear shed in secret shall not be withheld;
...ot yonder orb, that emits her pale beam,
...ll witness my tears, by affection impell'd,
...scend on the grave of our friend, in a stream.

...ed off from my bosom, the sigh of regret
...ll glide thro' this vale where his relicks are laid:
...is tribute of friendship I owe as debt,
...hich, like summer-dews shall be constantly paid.

...ah! were the pow'rs of bland minstrelsy mine
...ame and his virtues, with emphasis told,
...ould gild the fair column, and give to each line
...splendid and unalloyed sterling of gold.

ALEXIS.

...hat, tell me my Thirza, provokes thee to speak,
...gh bounding phrases, of Mordecai's name?
...ar, like the world, thou hast made a mistake,
...specting the much-worshipped idol of Fame.

...is but a shadow. And he that is wise
...ll never pant after an image so vain.
...praise, now, unconscious, there Mordecai lies,
...d there undisturbed, let his ashes remain.

THIRZA.

...d is thine ear deaf to the homage of praise,
...ceeding from hearts we are bound to esteem?
...wise from the mark thy philosophy strays
...hat thus it endeavours to baffle my scheme!

...e my part, Alexis, I freely avow
...d life without fame were insipid and dull,
...e law of my being declares it, and thou
...t law, I am certain, canst never annul.

...ill, therefore, I covet for him whom we lov'd
...ring of remembrance to grow round his tomb
...hich, after yon breeze-waving willow's removd
...Time's mouldering hand, shall continue to bloom.

ALEXIS.

...Ido not convinced that thy passion for fame,
...ear Thirza, is such as my reason approves—
...now to oblige thee, shall Mordecai's name
...ng by the bard who his memory loves.

...end to the lay. And whilst sorrows detain
...gaze to the sod, where his ashes repose,
...let us remember that life in the wane,
...long, round ourselves and our prospects shall close!

THE ELEGY.

...ee rests his head upon this lap of earth
...outh to fame and fortune early known;
...ce smiled on his auspicious birth,
...taste and fancy marked him for their own.

...dent in every laudable pursuit,
...form the poet, scholar, christian, man,
...rich in feelings, and each grace minute,
...With diamond hopes his bright career began.

...early life to charm his young compeers,
...in the joeund throng encircled round,
...th parts developed, far beyond his years,
...tuned his lyre, and trod poetic ground.

...years rolled on the instructive page unroll'd
...to his ken the gems of knowledge spread,
...ere his adolescence past, behold!
...The laurel-plumage gathered round his head.

...could this pencil that attempts to sketch
...faint resemblance of his sparkling mind,
From his own fire a transient ste catch
Of tenderness and energy combined—

This monument, more durable than brass,
And far more lovely than the Parian stone,
Should, with his name to future ages pass,
And make his merits, and endowments known.

Not for his sake; for he unconscious sleeps,
Nor heeds our sighs, nor his Rebecca's tears;
But solely for our sakes, whose friendship weeps,
And theirs who follow in the lapse of years.

For, when his genius had embossed the shrine,
In which our Mordecai's remains are laid,
Who, unimproved, could read the instructive line,
Of such a homage to such virtues paid?

What hope remains—might every tongue exclaim,
What hope for us to count on years to come,
Since all the honours that hung round his name,
Could not protract his melancholy doom?

If taste, if sense, if genius, and fine wit,
With friendship's smiles, and fortune's prospects, all,
Thus to the hasty blow of time submit,
And Dagon-like, in nature's temple fall—

How vain, indeed must be their hopes, who build
Beneath the stars the fabrick of their bliss,
And with nice art the superstructure gild,
With views confined to such a world as this!

The Christian's prospect thus becomes illum'd
With the clear radiance of the torch of truth,
All else in one vast ruin lies entomb'd
Whilst he shall flourish in immortal youth.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE OLIVE BRANCH.

Extract of a letter from James Madison, Esq. President of the United States.

Washington, January 28, 1815.

"I have not been able as yet to do more than glance at the plan of the work, and run over a few of its pages. The course adopted of assembling authentic and striking facts, and addressing them impartially and independently, but with becoming emphasis, to the attention of the public, was best fitted to render it a valuable and seasonable service: and it appears that the success of your labours will well reward the laudable views with which it was undertaken."

Extract of a letter from a Member of the Senate of Pennsylvania, a decided Federalist.

"Mr. —— takes this opportunity of expressing to Mr. Carey the satisfaction which he has derived from reading his manly appeal from the passions to the reason of contending parties." Dec. 2, 1814.

"The Olive Branch, or Faults on both sides, federal and Democratic, is no party publication: it contains a lucid examination of the faults of both parties, and calls loudly for union in defence of our country and the dearest interests of all.—We have never seen a publication in this country that so justly merited the patronage of all. Federalists and Republicans will both see their faults clearly pointed out and commented on. We admire the independent spirit of the publication. Although we do not subscribe to all the tenets, objects, and recommendations contained in the Olive Branch, yet we think such a publication particularly valuable, as it comprises a succinct view a well arranged mass of public and political documents on the subjects which led to the war, particularly that of impressment, the Orders in Council, correspondence of Mr. Erskine and Mr. Smith, previous to the war, and important correspondence between our public functionaries and those of the enemy since the war.—Every man should possess this book, and read it carefully through without prejudice. Boston Patriot.

Messrs. Bosler & Co.

Have just received from LEE'S PATENT and FAMILY MEDICINE STORE, New-York,

A FRESH SUPPLY OF THE FOLLOWING

GENUINE MEDICINES.

For the prevention and cure of Bilious and Malignant Fevers, is recommended

Hahn's Anti-Bilious Pills.

THIS MEDICINE has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the Inventor's feelings, in several parts of the West Indies, and the Southern and Middle States, particularly in New-York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Petersburgh, Norfolk, Edenton, Wilmington, Charleston and Savannah. The testimony of a number of persons in each of the above places can be adduced, who have reason to believe, that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives, when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favor of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy, founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed, presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventors has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience, for believing that a dose of these Pills, taken once in every two weeks, during the prevalence of our bilious fevers will prove an infallible preventative; and further, that in the earliest stages of those diseases, their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate, and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these Pills is perfectly mild so as to be used by persons in every situation, and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile, and prevent its morbid secretions; to restore and amend the appetite; to produce a free perspiration, and thereby prevent colds, which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold, if taken on its first appearance. They are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness, sickness at the stomach, and severe head-ache, & ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seamen.

HAMILTON'S
Worm Destroying Lozenges,

Which have cured an immease number of persons of both sexes, of every age, and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from worms, and from obstructions of foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of, as operating with violence; on the contrary, a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent, and is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady, or the tenderest infant of a week old, should no worms exist in the body; but will, without pain or griping, cleanse the stomach and bowels, of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms, and many fatal disorders. The Lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

DESCRIPTION OF WORMS,
And the symptoms by which they are known:

Worms which infest the human body, are chiefly of four kinds, viz—The Teres, or large round worm; the Ascarides, or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitina, or short, flat, white worm; and lastly, the Tænia, or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long, and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms, are disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose; convulsions; epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food, and sometimes voracious; purging, with slimy and fœtid stools vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; pains in the head and thighs, with lowness of spirits; slow fever, with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms, should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of children"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens.—It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

Hamilton's Grand Restorative,

The proprietor of HAMILTON'S RESTORATIVE DROPS confidently recommends it as an invaluable medicine, for the speedy relief and permanent cure of

Nervous Disorders	Violent cramps in the stomach and back
Consumptions	Indigestion
Lowness of Spirits	Melancholy
Loss of Appetite	Gout in the Stomach
Impurity of Blood	Pains in the Limbs
Hysterical Affections	Relaxations, &c.
Inward Weaknesses

The principal operation of this medicine is in the stomach, restoring the digestive power, and sending from that organ new health and vigor into every part of the system; it enriches and purifies the blood without stimulating, too violently, the nervous system; strengthens the secretory vessels and general habits, brings back the muscular fibres to their natural and healthy tone; and restores that nutrition which immoderate evacuations have destroyed, and whose loss had thrown the whole frame into langour and debility.

The Restorative is absolutely above all commendation in removing those weaknesses and infirmities with which many females are afflicted, the consequences of difficult and painful labours, or of injudicious treatment therein.

In cases of extremity, where the long prevalence and obstinacy of disease have brought on a general impoverishment of the system, excessive debility of the whole frame, and a wasting of the flesh, which no nourishment or cordial could repair,

Perseverance in the use of this medicine has performed the most astonishing cures.

The Grand Restorative is prepared in Pills, as well as in a fluid form, which assists considerably in producing a gradual & lasting effect.

ESSENCE & EXTRACT OF MUSTARD,

A safe and effectual remedy for Rheumatisms, Gout, Palsy, Sprains and Bruises, White Swellings, old Strains and Relaxations, Numbness and Weakness of the Neck, Pains of the Side, Headache, Swelled Faces, Frozen Limbs, and every similar complaint. It prevents Chilblains, or Chopped Hands, and the ill effects of getting wet or damp in the feet.

THE GENUINE PERSIAN LOTION,

So celebrated among the fashionable thro' out Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals, (the basis of other Lotions) and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflammatory redness, scurfs, tetters, ringworms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c. The Persian Lotion operates mildly, without impeding the natural, insensible perspiration, which is essential to health, yet its effects are speedy and permanent, rendering the skin delicately soft and smooth, and improving the complexion.

THE RESTORATIVE POWDER,
For the Teeth and Gums.

This excellent preparation comforts and strengthens the gums, preserves the enamel from decay, and cleanses & whitens the teeth, by absorbing all the acrimonious slime and foulness, which, suffered to accumulate, never fails to injure and finally ruin them.

ELIXIR FOR COUGHS,

Celebrated for the cure of colds, obstinate coughs, asthmas, and approaching consumptions, and a certain remedy for the whooping cough.

HAHN'S
GENUINE EYE WATER,

A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes, whether the effect of natural weakness or of accident.

TOOTH ACHE DROPS.

The only remedy yet discovered which gives immediate and lasting relief in the most severe instances.

ITCH CURED
LEE'S SOVEREIGN OINTMENT FOR THE ITCH,

Warranted an infallible remedy at one application, may be used with perfect safety on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

LEE'S
INFALLIBLE
AGUE AND FEVER DROPS,

For the cure of Agues, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers.

HAHN'S
True & Genuine German Corn Plaister.

☞ At the place of sale pamphlets may be had gratis, describing cures performed by the above medicines; the number, importance and respectability of which, fully justify every article of this advertisement.

DOCTOR N. SMITH,

RESPECTFULLY informs the inhabitants of Pittsburgh and its vicinity, that he has been regularly licensed to practice PHYSICK AND SURGERY, and has for several years been engaged in the practice of its various branches, and therefore offers them his services, particularly in the capacity of a Dentist, hoping that his thorough knowledge of this branch of his profession, united with assiduity in business, and exertions to please, will entitle him to the patronage of the public. He cleans, repairs and extracts defective teeth, inserts new ones in such a manner and of such materials, the knowledge of which is peculiar to himself. He deems encomiums upon his performances superfluous, as he has set a number of artificial teeth since his residence in Pittsburgh; those that have scruples respecting the operation are requested to call and satisfy themselves.

The operation of inserting and cleaning is attended with little or no pain.

He also prepares the highly celebrated Carbonic Dentrifice, which will keep the teeth white and prevent the collection of Tartor.

Applications made at Dr. MORRIS PARKER'S east side of Wood street, between Diamond Alley and Fifth streets.

October 14, 1815.

N. B. If the expectations are not answered, pecuniary satisfaction will not be required.

Citizens of Pittsburgh,

THE PITTSBURGH STEAM ENGINE COMPANY,

BEG leave to inform their friends and the Public generally that their establishment is now in complete operation and consists of a

STEAM ENGINE FACTORY

for furnishing Steam Engines on Oliver Evans's construction, which daily experience is proving to be the cheapest and most powerful.

AN IRON FOUNDERY,

on an extensive scale, capable of furnishing castings of any description, but particularly adapted to machinery.

AN ANVIL AND ANCHOR FACTORY, capable of furnishing anvils and anchors of the largest size.

A BRASS FOUNDERY,

calculated for general castings, but particularly for machinery and large bells, which will be warranted of the first quality.

A BUTT-HINGE FACTORY,

will also shortly be in operation, on a scale sufficiently large to supply any demand. It is also intended to supply small castings annealed.

A PATTERN MAKER'S SHOP, AND A BORING AND TURNERS SHOP.

The lathes are driven by the force of steam; and all orders in the different branches of turning Iron, Brass, Wood, &c. will be executed with dispatch.

They also carry on the business of

SCREW MAKING,

and are prepared to furnish Rolling and Slitting Mill, Paper Mill, Fullers, Tobacco and Millstone Screws, &c.

The Pittsburgh Steam Engine Company flatter themselves that the nature and extent of their establishment, will enable them to furnish any article in the mechanical line particularly, on as short and as favorable terms as any establishment in the state.

They have on hand a STEAM ENGINE, sufficiently powerful to grind from 20 to 25 bushels of Wheat per hour, in the best manner. Also, a number of Paper Mill, Fullers, and Mill Screws, and Sugar Mill apparatus.

Anti-Bilious Pills,

Of a quality superior to any thing of the kind ever offered as a GENERAL MEDICINE, in this Country.

NOW prepared from a recipe of the celebrated Dr. Chisholm, who, from a long residence in the West-India Islands, has been enabled to favor the world with the most complete history, and most approved methods of curing all the BILIOUS DISEASES of those warm climates.

This extraordinary Medicine, which now for the first time is finding its way into general practice, has properties in the highest degree superior to the mercurial nostrums frequently recommended by the name of Anti-Bilious Pills. The extraordinary powers of this medicine as a solvent and evacuent of Bile is without example; never producing debility or injuring the health, in the smallest degree of the most delicate child or weakly female.

The BILIOUS HEAD-ACHE, so much complained of in this country, and in the neighbourhood of rivers, is often removed by a single dose, which, to a strong man, is only five pills, and to a weakly woman, three. The same dose will generally remove the most excruciating pains of the cholic, like a charm, by abusing the bile to pass downwards in the course of an hour or two.

Two or three Pills taken an hour before dinner, and repeated every third day, will effectually remove those diseases arising from flatulency and indigestion, and by persevering in the use of them for a considerable time, the appetite will be improved, and strength and vigor will return.

Two Pills taken at bed time, with a cup of penny-royal tea, and repeated every second night, will effectually remove Rheumatic pains wherever seated.

A single Pill, taken every fourth hour with a cup of flaxseed tea, will cure Pleurisy, promote expectoration, and relieve coughs and colds.

IN CONSUMPTIVE CASES and DISEASES OF THE LIVER, no medicine ever yet discovered, has been known to perform such cures. Two Pills taken every third morning, will be found sufficient, unless costiveness prevails; in which case the dose may be increased according to the strength or constitution.

The Dysentery, Cramp, and Summer Complaint on children, are soon relieved by a few doses. A single Pill to a child of 6 years old, and the dose increased according to their strength and age.

In Asthmatic or Phthisical cases, where the laborious breathing and great oppression, with faintings, are fast sinking the patient to the brink of the grave, a few Pills, taking one every hour, with fennel or pepper-mint tea, will often enable the patient to walk about in a few hours.

DOCTOR HANDY'S
WORM
DESTROYING LOZENGES,

A safe and efficacious medicine for destroying and bringing away WORMS.

MAY be used with safety by children of any age, or as common physic by the most delicate constitution, in any climate, without restraint of diet, or the smallest danger from cold. It may be given with advantage after the small-pox or measles; or as a family medicine, in any case where physic is necessary.—The most frequent seat of worms in the human body, is the intestinal tube; but occasionally they have been found in almost every other part of the body.

Some very extraordinary cases of Worms, of an unusual form and appearance, being brought away by these Lozenges, have been made public in England, where the rapid sale of the medicine has exceeded any thing of the kind ever known before; and has also proved, to a demonstration, its approved superiority, as an athelmintick, to the numerous puffed and useless nostrums, which are daily advertised in the newspapers.

A single dose of this valuable medicine has often been known to remove half a pot full of the Teres or Round Worms.

A few doses are generally sufficient to remove the Ascarides, a small white worm, the seat of which is either the stomach or rectum.

Even the Tape Worm, at all times the most difficult to destroy, may, by persevering in the frequent use of this medicine, be totally removed in the course of a few weeks.

To select cases, with the names of people who are not known here, and living at a great distance, would be useless, and take up too much of the readers time. We shall therefore only observe, for the benefit of those who are acquainted with the symptoms of worms, that they are known or suspected to exist by a pain in the stomach, attended with a sudden depression of spirits before eating; at other times the belly is hard, painful and distended with wind—costiveness, head ache, and trembling of the limbs, with a sense of something rising in the throat—pale complexion and emaciated body, with weakness and irregular appetite—convulsive, epileptic or falling fits—pains in the back and side, and frequent itching of the nose, and sometimes of the anus. The above and a long train of afflicting diseases may all be occasioned by worms, which are much oftener the cause of death than is commonly believed.
